cast iron

American

Cast in iron, these two post lamps exemplify the Beaux Arts movement, characterized by perfect symmetry, rich ornamentation and grand scale. The lamps were designed by McKim, Mead & White, an architectural firm closely associated with the City Beautiful and Beaux Arts movements in the United States at the turn of the 20th century. The purpose of these movements was to restructure and alleviate the confusion of American cities, ultimately providing them with a sense of order and formal presence.

The lamps are offered as a pair only, and can be seen on display in our Chicago showroom.
